BALI STARLING

The Bali starling is critically endangered, among the rarest in the world. Found only in the Bali Barat National Park, where armed personnel are needed to protect them, they suffer from poaching for the caged-bird trade.

We aim to release four birds annually into the nearby rainforest. If guests are lucky, they may spot them around the resort.

We will also host guest lectures by conservation experts, present educational materials in guest rooms, and update through social media and the press about our programme.
